Decentraland is another Metaverse candidate that grapples with this very issue. Dave Carr of the Decentraland Foundation tells me that the founders decided that “rather than have these environments be controlled by central bodies, they should have a decentralised structure and be open to everyone to own and govern.” From economic matters, to content moderation and even the maintenance of its servers, Decentraland's user base dictates its entire policy course through regular votes.

Hence, you can always expect to find a wide selection of games to choose from and play.

The Apple vs Epic Games trial, which took place in May and whose verdict is expected later this year, could wind up being just the first of many similar clashes. The court battle started last year, when Apple removed Epic's Fortnite from its App Store after the developer had engineered a system to prevent Apple from taking a 30 per cent commission on Fortnite sales to iPhone users. Epic's defence was couched in the language of worry about how Apple's behaviour could affect and shape an emerging Metaverse.
